On March 6, 2013, the Special Committee of Dell's Board of Directors issued the following statement regarding its evaluation of Dell's strategic alternatives:

DELL SPECIAL COMMITTEE ISSUES STATEMENT REGARDING ITS

EVALUATION OF STRATEGIC ALTERNATIVES

Round Rock, TX March 6, 2013 The Special Committee of Dell's Board of Directors today issued the following statement regarding its evaluation of Dell's (NASDAQ:DELL) strategic alternatives:

The Special Committee, consisting solely of independent directors and working with our independent legal and financial advisors, undertook a rigorous process, over a period of more than five months, to evaluate Dell's current risks, opportunities and strategic alternatives. The alternatives included continuing with or modifying the Company's existing business plan, conducting a leveraged recapitalization, changing the dividend policy, and potentially selling all or parts of the business.

As a result of that process, the Special Committee unanimously determined that the sale of the Company would be the best alternative for stockholders. We negotiated aggressively to ensure that stockholders received the best possible value and agreed to a $13.65 per share transaction that provides value certainty at a 37% premium above the average price for the 90 days before rumors regarding the transaction surfaced.

We further insisted on a number of important provisions in the transaction to protect and maximize value for stockholders. These include a low break-up fee and a robust go-shop process under a fee structure that incentivizes our financial advisor, Evercore, to find a superior deal if one exists. Evercore is actively soliciting potential alternative proposals now in a process that concludes March 22, and we will continue negotiations past that date if a potentially superior proposal emerges. We also insisted on a requirement that holders of a majority of the shares not held by Mr. Dell or members of management approve the transaction before it can be completed.

The Special Committee has worked hard, and continues to work hard, to produce the best outcome for Dell's shareholders.
