Expanding our suite of financial solutions for students

To say this has been an exciting few weeks for Transact and Blackboard would be an understatement. Just three weeks ago, we announced our acquisition of Sequoia Retail Systems to expand our depth of solutions and innovation.

Today, I am equally proud to announce we have entered into a definitive agreement to purchase Higher One Holdings, Inc. Specifically, the CASHNet payments business.

With almost 30 years of serving the education community and predating Higher One, CASHNet should not be confused with Higher One's former financial aid refund business, which was recently sold. CASHNet is the market leader in payment solutions serving higher education, with over 700 clients and millions of students nationwide.

CASHNet is a natural complement to Blackboard and Blackboard Transact in supporting institutions as they make a meaningful difference in the lives of the students they serve. This acquisition dramatically broadens and strengthens our commitment to the educational community. It recognizes our understanding of the dependency between student financial management, teaching and learning, and student engagement across the entire educational experience.

I am thrilled to welcome CASHNet to the Transact family.

For more specifics about the acquisition, please review our press release.
