Subject: An Exciting Day LogMeIn and GoTo Come Together

Hi everyone,

Just moments ago, we announced that we have entered into a definitive merger agreement for LogMeIn to combine with Citrix's GoTo family of products. This transaction marks the beginning of what we see as an amazing new chapter for our company. Together we'll become one of the world's top 10 SaaS companies—a market leader with over $1 billion in revenue, nearly 3,000 employees and more than two million customers in virtually every country across the globe.

You will soon receive an invite from your respective office leaders for an all-hands meeting tomorrow where we'll walk through more specifics. Each local office will host its own meeting, with the exception of the United States where we will do one big meeting. We've also created a new section on InSite intended to keep you informed of transaction details. This site includes an FAQ for employees, links to important materials and a short video. In the meantime, I thought I'd take a minute to let you know why we are doing this and what to expect next.

A rare opportunity

First and foremost, this deal accelerates our stated strategy to define the future of the collaboration, engagement, and identity and access markets while doubling the size of our business. We see this deal as a rare opportunity to fundamentally redefine and lead our industry.

We believe that when you combine GoTo's broad customer base, business-tested products, and brand recognition with LogMeIn's renowned focus on user experience, proven ability to win millions of users, and our deep experience running a growth business, you have a recipe for disruption. Specifically, we believe we will have the combined strengths required to:

1. Combine the world's best user experience with a seamless communications platform to transform the way people collaborate
2. Enable simple and secure access for people and businesses as they evolve to an app and cloud-centric world
3. Empower companies to reimagine customer engagement and support across all digital channels, devices, and media

New possibilities

We expect to bring together the best of both companies' cultures, while creating new aspects to our culture in support of our new business. The good news is that LogMeIn and GoTo have both always focused on the possibilities and outcomes our technologies deliver for people: LogMeIn seeks to simplify the way people connect to each other and the world around us, and GoTo believes that human connections are at the core of everything they do.

We also believe the combined company will be a leader in innovation with the scale to make larger investments and pursue a broader range of growth opportunities. This will result in more complex operational challenges that in turn will open up new roles, create new opportunities for personal development and offer more room for our employees to build a career.

Many of you will be asked to help with integration planning in the upcoming weeks and months. We recognize that mergers of this scale come with significant challenges and inherent uncertainty. My commitment is that we will be as transparent and thoughtful as possible through the transition process and will communicate regular updates.

Staying focused

The proposed transaction is not expected to close until in the first quarter of 2017, and is subject to regulatory approvals and other customary closing conditions. This means that until closing, we remain independent companies with independent objectives that we all must continue to work hard to achieve. I understand that it is often hard to maintain a business-as-usual approach in these circumstances, but that is exactly what we all need to do.

We have embarked on an amazing new chapter in our company's history, and I am excited to start this transformative journey together.

Bill
