CODE OF ETHICS AND CONDUCT

Presentation

Based on its own mission of universalizing the sanitation utilities in the State of São Paulo, and offering quality services and products throughout the domestic and international markets, Sabesp stands out as a socially responsible company and fulfills its role as an agent of sustainable development. Basing its economic performance on social and environmental responsibility, Sabesp fosters development and welfare for its employees, the communities where it operates, and the country as a whole.

The Social Responsibility initiative is a commitment of utmost importance to Sabesp. It serves to enhance its business practices and is in line with the Company's mission, which is based on ethical management and sustainability. Sabesp's Code of Ethics and Conduct forms the Company's main referential guideline. For Sabesp, the Code of Ethics and Conduct, which has been built by means of an extensive participatory process, brings together principles and rules which have been established throughout the Company's history, and it directs the way in which the Company establishes its relationships with its diverse business contacts: management, employees, customers, suppliers, environment, community and society in general.

Thus, in order for Sabesp to consolidate and enlarge its existing reputation as a socially responsible company, the Code of Ethics and Conduct is vital.

Introduction

Ethics are the foundation on which human conduct is based, and they are an intrinsic part of the development process of civilization. Ethics influence the human decision-making process, leading to decisions which are inherently "good" and "correct" for humans in their lives and in their relationships with others and which are also in line with the common good.

Personal and corporate ethics are inseparable. The Company's adoption of ethical principles and conduct reflect its organizational identity, and guides not only the decisions made and the measures taken, but also the decision-making process. Although each person has their own set of values, these must be compatible with those of the Company. Thus, the adoption of ethical principles and conduct is essential in order for the Company and its employees to act in an integrated and coherent form when doing business with different parties, and this communicating and working together will ensure a higher possibility of success.

Aims of the Sabesp Code of Ethics and Conduct

To serve as a formal and institutional reference point for the personal and professional conduct of all Sabesp's employees, regardless of their role or position in order to set a standard for internal and external relations.

To encourage ethical behavior, based on fair and relevant values adopted by all.

To reduce the subjectivity of personal interpretations of moral and ethical principles.

To strengthen the image of Sabesp and its employees in the eyes of the public.

Sabesp Code of Ethics and Conduct

The Sabesp Code of Ethics and Conduct is made up of ethical principles and values that consolidate the Company's organizational values through statements that are designed to guide the decisions of all members throughout the organization.

The Conduct Code drives the behavior of the Company and its external relations, taking into account the relevant legislation and contributing to the resolution of conflicts of interests.

Sabesp Ethical Values

Sabesp is committed to establishing its corporate practices based on the following values:

Respect for society

Being responsible for offering high quality water and sewage collection and treatment at proper tariffs.

Respect for the environment

Being responsible towards both our own generation and future generations by seeking sustainable development and promoting environmental education and awareness.

Suppliers

22. Productive Chain

Sabesp accepts co-responsibility for preventing and minimizing damage to the environment resulting from its productive chain, by screening the quality of its service suppliers and properly monitoring their services.

23. Compliance with Laws

Sabesp's service contracts clearly state that all suppliers must comply with current legislation, with special emphasis on environmental, child and forced labor legislation.

24. Favoritism

The management and all employees will establish an ethical and transparent relationship with the suppliers, and will ensure an environment free of any favoritism for themselves or for others.

25. Equality

The suppliers, regardless of being in equal or similar situations, must always receive the same treatment and opportunities. Any restriction must be grounded on solid technical-professional opinions.

26. Confidence

Sabesp's relationship with its suppliers is based on confidence and mutual ethical behavior which is expressed through the compliance of the contracts entered into between the Company and the suppliers.

Miscellaneous

The new business paradigm, which is grounded on the idea of sustainable development, leads Sabesp into a new way of doing business: a way that takes into account not only economic feasibility, but also social justice and the preservation of the environment. This view contributes to increase the perception of Sabesp's own raison d'être. In addition to its commitment to universalize the public sanitation services, Sabesp undertakes to contribute to improving the environmental conditions and the quality of life of the communities in the cities in which it operates, to restore natural waterways, and invest in peoples' training so that they can learn how to use water consciously.

By undertaking to consolidate its commitment to social and corporate responsibility, Sabesp promotes a model of Social Responsibility, which counts on the effective participation of all of its employees for its development. The social responsibility policy, which is based on our Code of Ethics and Conduct, will offer subsidies and guidelines so that the ongoing actions are enhanced and new actions are put into place under the paradigm of ethical management and sustainability.

The Sabesp Ethics and Conduct Committee was created in order to ensure the updating, dissemination and application of this Code.

With this measure, the Company ensures an institutional and corporate guideline that addresses the geographical, cultural and social diversity of the Company, and enhances a feeling of trust and guarantees the transparency of its actions, while establishing a vision of cross-social responsibility with its value chain.
