Item 8.01. Other Events.

On November 4, 2014, Under Armour, Inc. (“Under Armour” or the “Company”) announced the following organizational realignments effective December 1, 2014, designed to better support the Company’s corporate and operational objectives and continue to drive global growth.

Kip J. Fulks will continue to serve as Chief Operating Officer, leading the Company’s supply chain operations, information technology and security, as well as spearheading product innovation for Under Armour across the world. Mr. Fulks will also continue to oversee the Company’s global footwear product category.

Henry B. Stafford has been named Chief Merchandising Officer. In his new role, he will be responsible for driving the integration of Under Armour’s apparel, accessories and merchandising globally, as well as continuing to oversee the Company’s direct to consumer sales channels. Mr. Stafford previously served as President, North America.

Matthew C. Mirchin, previously the Executive Vice President, Global Marketing, has been named President, North America. In his new role, Mr. Mirchin will be responsible for the overall results of Under Armour’s North America business and will oversee the Company’s North America wholesale channel.

Adam Peake will assume the role of Executive Vice President, Global Marketing. Mr. Peake previously served as Senior Vice President of Sales, North America.

Continuing in their current roles are Brad Dickerson, Chief Financial Officer and Karl-Heinz Maurath, President, International.

“As we continue to introduce game-changing innovations and advance our goal to become the world’s number one performance brand, it is critical that we evolve our leadership structure to ensure that we are maximizing opportunities for global growth and success,” said Kevin Plank, Chairman and CEO of Under Armour.
