Follow-up to Stewart's Announcement

Dear Valued Client:

As you may have already seen, Stewart Information Services recently announced that we have entered into an agreement to combine with Fidelity National Financial, a leading provider of title insurance and transaction services to the U.S. real estate and mortgage industries.

This transaction is the result of a comprehensive review of strategic alternatives our Board of Directors initiated last year. Our Board determined that this transaction was the value-maximizing alternative for our shareholders, and that it would afford Stewart the opportunity to benefit from Fidelity's exceptional financial and operating platform.

Fidelity has demonstrated a strong commitment to our company, our culture and our people, and this transaction will provide Stewart with the scale, financial strength, access to resources and technology to not only maintain, but grow the Stewart brand and continue providing the services and products you have come to expect.

It is important to note that the transaction announcement is just the first step in the process of combining our two companies. Your points of contact at Stewart will not change, nor will our continued commitment to serving you.

Stewart and Fidelity will continue to operate independently until the transaction is closed, which we expect to happen in the first or second quarter of 2019. As with most transactions of this nature, the agreement is subject to approval by Stewart's shareholders and regulatory authorities and the satisfaction of customary closing conditions.

We will keep you informed along the way as any new developments transpire. Until then, and as always, you are a valued customer, and you remain an integral part of Stewart's continued success.

If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me.

Thank you for continuing to choose Stewart.

Forward-Looking Statements

This communication contains forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 including, but not limited to, Fidelity National Financial, Inc.'s ("FNF") and Stewart Information Services Corporation's ("Stewart") expectations or predictions of future financial or business performance conditions. All statements other than statements of historical or current fact included in this communication that address activities, events, conditions or developments that we expect, believe or anticipate will or may occur in the future are forward-looking statements. You can generally identify forward-looking statements by the use of forward-looking terminology such as "anticipate," "believe," "can," "continue," "could," "estimate," "evaluate," "expect," "explore," "forecast," "intend," "likely," "may," "might," "outlook," "plan," "potential," "predict," "probable," "project," "seek," "should," "view," or negative thereof or other variations thereon or comparable terminology. Forward looking statements give our current expectations and projections relating to our financial conditions, result of operations, plans, objectives, future performance and business and these statements are not guarantees of future performance. Because such statements are based on expectations as to future financial and operating results and are not statements of fact, actual results may differ materially from those projected. Neither FNF nor Stewart assumes any duty to update or revise any forward-looking statements, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise, as of any future date. The risks and uncertainties which forward-looking statements are subject to include, but are not limited to: changes in general economic, business and political conditions, including changes in the financial markets; weakness or adverse changes in the level of real estate activity, which may be caused by, among other things, high or increasing interest rates, a limited supply of mortgage funding or a weak U. S. economy; our potential inability to find suitable acquisition candidates, acquisitions in lines of business that will not necessarily be limited to our traditional areas of focus, or difficulties in integrating acquisitions; our dependence on distributions from our title insurance underwriters as a main source of cash flow; significant competition that our operating subsidiaries face; compliance with extensive government regulation of our operating subsidiaries; the risk that Stewart shareholders may not adopt the merger agreement; the risk that our stockholders may not adopt the merger agreement; the risk that the necessary regulatory approvals may not be obtained or may be obtained subject to conditions that are not anticipated; risks that any of the closing conditions to the proposed merger may not be satisfied in a timely manner; the risk that the businesses will not be integrated successfully, that such integration may be more difficult, time-consuming or costly than expected or that the expected benefits of the acquisition will not be realized; and other risks detailed in the risk factors discussed in “Item 1.A. Risk Factors” in FNF’s and Stewart’s most recent Annual Reports on Form 10-K, as updated by any Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q, Current Reports on Form 8-K and future filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”).
