Item 8.01. Other Events.

NYSE LISTING AND CONTINUED LISTING STANDARDS

The New York Stock Exchange, or NYSE, notified Fannie Mae via correspondence dated January 19, 2006 that the NYSE had granted Fannie Mae's request for the continued listing of Fannie Mae's common stock and other listed securities even though the company has not yet filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission, or SEC, its 2004 Form 10-K, which was due March 16, 2005.

Under its listing standards, the NYSE may initiate suspension and delisting proceedings when a listed company fails to file its annual report on Form 10-K with the SEC in a timely manner. If a company has not filed its annual report within a year of the report's due date, the rules generally require that suspension and delisting procedures commence. However, under recently adopted amendments to its continued listing standards, the NYSE, in its sole discretion, may refrain from commencing suspension and delisting proceedings in certain circumstances, notwithstanding a company's failure to file its annual report within one year of the filing due date. The amended standards require the NYSE to reevaluate its determination to continue the listing of such a company once every three months and, if the NYSE affirms its decision to allow trading to continue, to advise the SEC of such reaffirmation, as well as publish the reaffirmation on the NYSE's website. In determining whether to allow trading in a company's securities to continue, the NYSE will consider, among other things, a company's financial health and compliance with the NYSE's qualitative and quantitative listing standards, as well as whether there is a reasonable expectation that the company will be able to resume timely filings in the future.

Fannie Mae's continued listing is subject to quarterly reviews by the NYSE, as well as ongoing monitoring of Fannie Mae's progress toward restating its financial statements and filing its periodic reports with the SEC. If the NYSE does not affirm its decision to allow trading to continue in any quarterly review, Fannie Mae's listed securities would become subject to NYSE trading suspension and delisting proceedings. Fannie Mae is engaged in regular discussions with the NYSE staff regarding the status of the restatement and continued listing through completion of the restatement. Until Fannie Mae is current with its SEC periodic reporting requirements, the NYSE will identify Fannie Mae as a late filer on its website and will disseminate on the consolidated tape an indicator of the company's late-filer status.
