On April 14, 2011, Craig Morrison resigned as a director of Reflect Scientific, Inc., a Utah corporation (the Company). Mr. Morrison's resignation was not due to any disagreement with the Company on any matter relating to the Company's operations, policies or practices.

On April 15, 2011, acting pursuant to Sections 16-10a-810(1)(b) and 16-10a-821 of the Utah Revised Business Corporation Act, the Company's two remaining directors, Kim Boyce and Tom Tait, resolved to appoint William G. Morrison and Moon to serve as Technical Advisors to the Company.

Mr. Moon, age 61, has over 30 years' experience in startup and engineering related companies. His leadership experience includes assisting in the formation of what became the world's largest disk drive company, Quantum Corporation, with over 10,000 employees. He was Principal Engineer and Vice President of Engineering for over twenty years, during which time he co-designed numerous standard-setting disk drives. During that time, he was a co-founder of a wholly owned Quantum subsidiary, Plus Development, and was key in the invention of the Hardcard, the very first hard drive on a plug-in card. He helped create a partnership with Panasonic for the world's first totally automated disk drive assembly plant in Japan, producing over 100 million disk drives. Prior to that, Mr. Moon designed memory products at Hewlett Packard Labs in their Disk Memory Division. Over the past five years Mr. Moon has served as technical advisor to several companies and has sat on several boards. He also served as a founding member to the Advancement Council for Engineering & Technology at Brigham Young University.

Since the beginning of the Company's last fiscal year, there have been no transactions, and there are no currently proposed transactions, in which Mr. Moon had or will have a direct or indirect material interest and in which the amount involved exceeds $120,000.
