Forward Looking Statements

Certain statements in this communication regarding the proposed transaction between NXP and FSL are forward-looking statements. The words anticipate, believe, ensure, expect, if, intend, estimate, probable, forecasts, predict, outlook, aim, will, could, should, would, potential, may, might, anticipate, strategy, and similar expressions, and the negative thereof, are intended to identify forward-looking statements. These forward-looking statements, which are subject to numerous factors, risks and uncertainties about NXP and FSL, may include projections of their respective future business, strategies, financial condition, results of operations and market data. These statements are only predictions based on current expectations and projections about future events. There are important factors, risks and uncertainties that could cause actual outcomes and results to be materially different from those projected, including the risk factors set forth in the definitive joint proxy statement/prospectus, NXP's most recent Form 20-F and FSL's most recent reports on Form 10-K, Form 10-Q and other documents on file with the SEC and the factors given below:

the failure to consummate or delay in consummating the proposed transaction;

the timing to consummate the proposed transaction;

the risk that a condition to closing of the proposed transaction may not be satisfied;

the risk that a regulatory approval that may be required for the proposed transaction is delayed, is not obtained, or is obtained subject to conditions that are not anticipated;

NXP's and FSL's ability to achieve the synergies and value creation contemplated by the proposed transaction;

the ability of either NXP or FSL to effectively integrate their businesses; and the diversion of management time on transaction-related issues.

FSL's and NXP's forward-looking statements are based on assumptions that may not prove to be accurate. Neither FSL nor NXP can guarantee future results, level of activity, performance or achievements. Moreover, neither FSL nor NXP assumes responsibility for the accuracy and completeness of any of these forward-looking statements. FSL and NXP assume no obligation to update or revise any forward-looking statements as a result of new information, future events or otherwise. Readers are cautioned not to place undue reliance on these forward-looking statements that speak only as of the date hereof.

The following is a customer letter sent by NXP as of September 16, 2015.

September 16, 2015

Dear Valued Customer:

As we previously informed you, we have entered into a definitive agreement under which NXP will merge with Freescale. In doing so, we are convinced that NXP will serve you better than ever before as a stronger leader focused on smarter world applications. As we prepare for the announced merger, NXP wants to assure you of its continuing commitment to support you and the obligations under our mutually beneficial contracts.

As you are aware, the merger is subject to certain regulatory approvals and therefore NXP and Freescale must continue to act as separate and independent suppliers until the merger takes place. Accordingly, NXP would propose that immediately after the merger is effective, a dedicated NXP team will meet with you to harmonize any contractual arrangements which may exist as a result of this merger. We fully understand that scheduling such a joint meeting typically can't be arranged on Day 1 of the merger, so would further propose that the contractual arrangements remain uninterrupted until such time as our joint meeting can be concluded.

We thank you for your continued trust and partnership with NXP and we remain focused on serving you with a customer focused passion to win.

Sincerely,

Steve Owen
