ASTRAZENECA RECEIVES FDA APPROVAL FOR NEW CANCER DRUG IRESSA™ (gefitinib, ZD1839)

IRESSA is the First in a New Class of Drugs for the Treatment of Advanced Non-Small Cell Lung Cancer Only
FDA-Approved Option for Third Line Patients

AstraZeneca PLC announced today that the US Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has granted accelerated approval of IRESSA™ (gefitinib, ZD1839) for the treatment of advanced non-small-cell lung cancer (NSCLC). The FDA approval is based upon data from Phase II trials showing 13.6 per cent of US patients achieved tumour shrinkage of at least 50 per cent, after their disease had progressed following failure of both platinum-based and docetaxel chemotherapies.

The effectiveness of IRESSA is based on objective response rates. Most responses were seen in the first eight weeks of treatment. IRESSA is a once-a-day 250 mg pill and is not typically associated with the severe side-effects often seen with standard cytotoxic chemotherapy treatments used to treat NSCLC patients. Most patients experience some side-effects but these are generally mild and well-tolerated including rash and diarrhoea. Interstitial Lung Disease (ILD) is a known complication of lung cancer and has been observed in about 1 per cent of patients taking IRESSA.

The US approval reflects a recognition of the need for new treatment options for NSCLC - a complex, severely symptomatic illness with a devastating impact on patients and their families. Lung cancer is the biggest cancer killer in the world, causing more deaths each year than breast, prostate and bowel cancer put together. NSCLC is the most common form, accounting for 80 per cent of cases. In the year 2000 there were over 1.2 million people diagnosed with lung cancer world-wide and more than 1 million people died from the disease. In the United States, lung cancer will account for approximately 157,000 deaths in 2003. The total market for drugs used to treat non-small cell lung cancer in the US is estimated to be worth over $1 billion and is set to grow to $4.5 billion in 2011.

The FDA accelerated (or sub part H) approval process was created for life threatening conditions where a new drug provides meaningful therapeutic benefit over available treatments, or in the case of IRESSA, where no approved therapies exist. As part of this process, AstraZeneca has agreed with FDA that it will complete a programme of Phase IV clinical studies, which are designed to further demonstrate the clinical benefits of IRESSA and satisfy FDA requirements for full approval.

Edgar Filing: ASTRAZENECA PLC - Form 6-K

IRESSA was approved for the treatment of inoperable or recurrent NSCLC in Japan in July 2002 and has recorded US $86 million in sales since its launch. The drug's approval was also announced in Australia on May 1st 2003. A marketing application was submitted in the European Union in February 2003. Marketing applications have also been submitted in 12 other countries with a number of these nearing completion of the review process. Additional marketing applications are planned for submission in the near future. Phase II clinical trials are also underway in other solid tumour types including colorectal, breast, head and neck and prostate cancers.

IRESSA is a trademark of the AstraZeneca group of companies.

CRESTOR® -- NEW DATA AND REGULATORY UPDATE

New Data

AstraZeneca announced today that an updated review of the safety profile for CRESTOR® (rosuvastatin) 10-40mg in over 15,000 patients, will be presented as a poster at the 2nd annual meeting of the Asia Pacific Scientific Forum, in Honolulu; June 8–10, 2003. The abstract, which covers data as of October, 2002, will be available online today via the conference website at: <http://www.americanheart.org/presenter.jhtml?identifier=3000411>

The data confirm the benefit-risk profile of CRESTOR, with the authors concluding that: 'Compared with other statins, rosuvastatin 10-40mg is highly beneficial in terms of lipid profiles and goal attainment with a reassuring safety profile.'

Regulatory Update

The US Food and Drug Administration (FDA) today confirmed that CRESTOR will be reviewed by the FDA's Endocrinologic and Metabolic Advisory Committee on July 9, 2003. AstraZeneca is confident in the regulatory package submitted for CRESTOR and looks forward to presenting data from the extensive clinical trial program, confirming its efficacy and safety.

CRESTOR was first approved in the Netherlands in 2002 and has now successfully completed the Mutual Recognition Procedure in 13 other European countries. CRESTOR is awaiting approval in the US, Japan and other markets. Launches in Canada, the Netherlands and the UK have occurred, and further launches are scheduled, following national marketing authorisations and pricing and reimbursement discussions.
